1.8. Modules of the academic discipline.

Module 1. The Council of Europe as an international organisation: status and institutional framework.

Module 2. Treaty law of the Council of Europe.

Module 3. Legal aspects of control and monitoring procedures within the Council of Europe.

The programme of a discipline - is a set of modules, their specific sequence, which contributes to the acquisition of certain competencies necessary to achieve specific learning outcomes. Each module has a certain logical completeness in relation to the required outcomes of the educational and professional programme as a whole. Topics are not defined within the module.

The modular principle of building a discipline programme provides flexibility in the content of the discipline, which is reflected in the possibility of its differentiation and integration. The continuity of the meaningful and logical transition between the modules of the discipline programme, as well as the increase of new knowledge, are made possible by the application of the principle of the "didactic spiral".

The number of academic units (didactic volume) of the content of the discipline should correspond to the structure of the discipline and the actual study time of students.

The didactic scope of the discipline is determined by the developer in an expert manner with a focus on the subject area of the discipline, as well as on competencies and learning outcomes.

Quantitative and qualitative indicators of the implementation of the programme of the discipline within the didactic structure are determined in the taxonomy of the discipline.

The explanation of the modules of the competence-oriented program of the educational discipline is defined in the matrix of connections between the modules of the educational discipline, learning outcomes and subject competencies (Annex 3).

4. Resource support of the academic discipline

4.1. Forms of organization of the educational process and types of educational classes:

- forms of organization of the educational process: educational classes; independent work; practical training; control measures.
- types of educational classes: lectures, practical classes, individual classes, consultations.

4.2. Students' independent work

Individual (independent) work is a type of out-of-class work of an educational nature, which is aimed at studying the program material of the educational course. The content of independent work is determined by the program of the study discipline "EU Migration Law", methodological materials, tasks and instructions of the teacher. During independent work, the applicant must process lecture notes, materials presented in textbooks, study guides on EU migration law, sources of international and national law of Ukraine and foreign countries, judicial practice in accordance with the topics of the academic discipline.

It is also important to work with scientific and practical comments, monographs, scientific articles, other scientific and educational literature recommended by the teacher. Methodical materials should provide for the possibility of self-monitoring by the student.

The student's independent work on learning the educational material can be carried out in the University's scientific library, classrooms, computer classes (laboratories), as well as at home.

In necessary this work is carried out in accordance with a schedule prepared in advance, which guarantees the possibility of individual access of the student to the necessary didactic tools.

The forms of independent work of students are:

- written homework;
- assimilation of theoretical material on the topics of practical classes;
- revision of lecture materials;
- work in information networks;
- development of additional literature;
- development of cases;
- essay on highly specialized issues;
- creation of a training course portfolio and its presentation;
- writing abstracts, reports and their presentation;
- preparation and publication of scientific articles, theses of scientific reports;

- participation in student scientific and practical conferences;
- compiling a bibliography on the relevant topic;
- generalization of court practice;
- commenting on sources of international law, as well as national law of Ukraine and foreign countries;
- other forms.

The student chooses the types of independent work according to his own interests and is agreed with the teacher, who ensures organization, control and evaluation of the quality of the corresponding work.

Educational material, which, according to the working curriculum, must be mastered by students in the process of independent work, is included in the sum of the points of the current control together with the educational material that was processed during the training sessions.

4.3. Educational technologies and learning methods

- educational technologies: problem-based learning, contextual learning, student-centered learning, audio-visual technologies, scientific discussions, interactive technologies, IT technologies, etc.;
- teaching methods: combination of verbal, visual and practical methods, method of problem-based teaching, press conferences, business games, brainstorming, simulation of professional situations, case method, discussion method, round table, etc.

4.4. Forms of pedagogical control and the system of evaluating the quality of formed competences based on the results of mastering an educational discipline

The following forms of control of the learning outcomes are provided: ongoing monitoring knowledge control and final control.

Ongoing monitoring knowledge control includes:

- quality control of the students' assimilation of the program material of the educational discipline in practical classes using the following means: oral, written or express survey, solving practical tasks or problems, participating in the development of a case, defending an essay or essay on the initiative of the student. Current control is aimed at checking the level of preparation of the applicant in studying the current material. In the course of the practical session, the applicant can receive an assessment on a six-point scale (0, 2, 3, 4, 6);

- quality control of the students' assimilation of the program material of the educational discipline, which is conducted at the end of the modules in the form of colloquiums.

During the semester, students perform tasks for independent work (preparation of a presentation, essay, report, etc.). The maximum number of points for independent work is 20 points.

The form of final control of the knowledge of higher education students in the academic discipline is the assessment in the form of credit. The minimum number of points to receive credit is 60.

Distribution of points between forms of organization of the educational process and types of control measures:

Control during practical sessions / workshops							Final grade (credit)
Module № 1		Module № 2		Module № 3		Independent work of the students
p/w	Tests / control work	p/w	Tests / control work	p/w	Tests / control work
max 15	max 10	max 25	max 10	max 10	max 10	max 20	max 100

Criteria for evaluating of learning outcomes:

Types of control	Number of grades	Criteria (for each assessment)
Control during class work	Max 5	Excellent assimilation of educational material on the topic, some minor shortcomings are possible.
	4	Good assimilation of the material on the topic, but there are some mistakes.
	3	Satisfactory level of assimilation of the material, a significant number of errors.
	Min 0	The minimum level of assimilation of the material, a significant number of errors.
Tests / control work / colloquium	Max 10	Unsatisfactory level of assimilation of the material.
	5	The results of processing the material are high, a small number of insignificant errors are possible.
	Min 0	Satisfactory level of assimilation of the material, a significant number of errors.
Grade of individual work of the student	Max 20	Unsatisfactory level of assimilation of the material.
	15	Deep knowledge of the issues related to the research topic. Fluency in the material, the ability to think independently and creatively, find, generalize, analyze the material, draw independent theoretical and practical conclusions.
	Min 0	The main issues are covered superficially, the conclusions do not have an independent character.
Credit	Max 100	Excellent knowledge of the subject matter.
	Min 60	Sufficient mastery of the material in the discipline.

4.5. Educational, methodological and informational support of the academic discipline
